Introducing Johnstown By Dave Hurst

If all you know about Johnstown is its flood, you are missing out on much of its history – and a lot of fun! In addition to being the “Flood City,” Johnstown has been a canal port, a railroad center, a steelmaking center, and the new home for a colorful assortment of European immigrants.

In 2015, Johnstown was proudly named the first “Kraft Hockeyville USA,” recognizing the community as the most passionate hockey town in the United States.

If you liked the “Rocky” movies, you’ll love Johnstown. This community was knocked down three times by devastating floods – in 1889, 1936 and 1977. Each time, our residents honored their dead, rolled up their sleeves, and rebuilt their homes and businesses.

Visit Johnstown today and you can hear the inspirational stories arising from the Johnstown floods. But, you can also see how we made steel and mined coal. You can experience our immigrant heritage and arts scene in the Cambria City Historic District. Or, you can party with us at one of the top-10 motorcycle rallies in the nation and other first-rate festivals celebrating music and ethnicity. You can boat whitewater in the Stonycreek Canyon; ride our byways; bicycle country lanes, mountain bike single-track and cycle rail-trails; hike atop our lush ridges; and boat, fish, or swim in lakes once owned by steel companies. And all of the Johnstown area’s attractions come beautifully framed by the scenic Allegheny Mountains.

Johnstown is located just 70 miles east of Pittsburgh (an easy drive on U.S. Route 22, less than a half-hour north of the Somerset Exit of the Pennsylvania Turnpike, and less than an hour from the Bedford Exit.

So join us in Johnstown—for a visit or a lifetime!

THE GREAT FLOOD OF 1889

Learn the shocking story of the Great Johnstown Flood of 1889 and Johnstown's remarkable recovery

125 YEARS AGO... In the waning years of the nineteenth century, the steel barons from Pittsburgh enjoyed a private retreat in the mountains of Cambria County. Known as the South Fork Fishing and Hunting Club, the members included Andrew Carnegie and Henry Clay Frick. The club boasted a multi-acre lake, boathouses and cottages. A large clubhouse served as a hotel and restaurant for members and their guests. Life was easy along the lake until the rains came that day. The storm began on Memorial Day and continued through the night.

On May 31, 1889, rising water in the lake breached the South Fork Dam, sending twenty million tons of water roaring through the Conemaugh Valley. The massive wall of water destroyed everything in its path. Houses, railroad cars and other debris all became part of the deadly mix that crashed into Johnstown and literally swept the town away. When it was all over, 2,209 people were dead; but from the destruction rose a spirit of survival and commitment that is still alive in Johnstown.

Visiting the following sites and points of interest will take you on an unforgettable journey through a poignant time in Johnstown's history; here the lessons of the past still apply today.

FASCINATING FACTS

The Johnstown Inclined Plane is a Historical Mechanical Engineering landmark.

Charles Dickens traveled on the Allegheny Portage Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Mainline Canal reduced travel between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh from 23 to four days.

The Allegheny Portage Railroad was part of the Underground Railroad.

Many of the steel industry's greatest advances were forged in Johnstown, including the three-high rolling mill.

The first successful use of the pneumatic process in making steel in the U.S. was made at the Cambria Iron Works in 1857-1858.

The first steel rails for the railroad were rolled in Johnstown's mills.

At one time, western Pennsylvania produced nearly one-quarter of America's coal.

Discover how our innovation and industrial might fueled America's westward expansion and transformed America into a modern industrial nation.

Westward, ho! CONQUERING THE ALLEGHENIES BY CANAL AND RAILROAD

In the early 19th century, the Allegheny Ridge presented a nearly insurmountable obstacle rising nearly 1,200 feet standing in the way of expansion to the west. To conquer the Ridge — and cross it with roads, canals and rail — was a challenge that mustered American ingenuity and established Pennsylvania as an industrial giant. The Pennsylvania Mainline Canal, completed in 1830, was the first route connecting Philadelphia with Pittsburgh and shortened the journey from three weeks by wagon to four days by railroad and canal. The Pennsylvania Railroad leaped the mountains with an all-rail route, sparking the development of the region's iron, steel and coal industries. Civil engineering masterpieces such as the Horseshoe Curve and the Gallitzin Tunnels, as well as the vast Pennsylvania Railroad locomotive and car shops in Altoona, established the Ridge area as an early testing and research laboratory for railroading.

See how canal boats were hauled over the mountains! ALLEGHENY PORTAGE RAILROAD NATIONAL HISTORIC SITE

The construction and operation of the Allegheny Portage Railroad was one of the greatest engineering feats of the 19th century. Visitor center, restored historic Lemon House tavern, hands-on exhibits and full-scale models in the Engine House Interpretive Building. Picnic area, hiking and cross-country ski trails. EXPLORE CAMBRIA CITY... OUR GROWING CULTURAL DISTRICT

The 10-block community of Cambria City was established in 1853 just after the steel making giant, the Cambria Iron Works became established in this area. A forerunner of Bethlehem Steel Corporation and United States Steel Corporation, the Iron Works attracted thousands of immigrants seeking work in the mills and mines. The area was a true melting pot of immigrants who found work in Johnstown's cigar factories, distilleries, and breweries and established churches and social clubs while preserving traditions and cultures. Faith is both alive and lively in Cambria City as this cultural, colorful neighborhood makes a dramatic transition! Today, this is Johnstown's arts and cultural district. A walking tour of Cambria City can be found at: www.jaha.org/VisitorResources/Cambria.html. Located along Route 56 (Broad St.), just west of Downtown Johnstown, from 1st to 10th Ave.

Loretto was the first English-speaking Catholic settlement in the U.S. west of the Allegheny Front!

LORETTO

Loretto, formerly the McGuire Settlement, was named after the Shrine of the Holy House in Loreto, Italy, by Father Demetrius Gallitzin, a former Russian Prince who renounced his royal upbringing, enrolled in seminary and became the first priest to receive all of his seminary studies in the United States. Gallitzin, known as "The Apostle of the Alleghenies", established the church and pastored the settlement in Loretto until his death in 1840. He is buried in an underground crypt with his heroic-sized statue standing atop a monument next to the Basilica of St. Michael the Archangel. He is currently under consideration for sainthood.

Another famous Loretto resident was steel magnate, Charles Schwab. Born into poverty, Schwab was hired by Carnegie Steel of Pittsburgh when he was 17 and worked his way up to company president by the age of 35. Schwab contributed his financial resources significantly to the people of the Ebensburg/Loretto community financing the Carmelite Monastery and the Basilica of St. Michael the Archangel.

EBENSBURG

Ebensburg traces its roots back to 1797, when the Rev. Reese Lloyd and a group of eleven families traveled here from Philadelphia and established a Welsh colony. In 1804, Ebensburg was designated the seat of the newly-formed County of Cambria. During the late 19th century, Ebensburg grew and prospered as word of the area's natural springs and scenic beauty spread. Many of the wealthy from New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh constructed summer "cottages" of fifteen to twenty rooms; while others enjoyed the services provided by the Belmont, Lloyd Springs and Mountain House. These hotels counted Andrew Carnegie, William H. Vanderbilt, and Mary Todd Lincoln as guests. This tradition of hospitality continues today, and we invite you to explore all the community has to offer.

Spend some time in Cresson,
Abraham Lincoln did!

CRESSON

Cresson workers helped to fuel the Industrial Revolution. According to Sr. Anne Frances Pulling in her book "Around Cresson and the Alleghenies", the town of Cresson was a "hub of commerce when the Pennsylvania Railroad established headquarters here with a roundhouse, machine shops and branch lines." Besides railroading, Cresson industries included lumbering, coal mining, and coke yards. Laborers resided in company houses located within one mile of where high society had built mansions.

The area's natural beauty of lush greens and mountain springs served as an escape for the Pittsburgh elite. Several built residences here including J&L Steel icon, Benjamin Jones, and U.S. Steel magnate, Andrew Carnegie. Many affluent guests, including President Abraham Lincoln, visited the elaborate Mountain House. Situated on a hillside amongst several mountain springs and private cottages, the resort accommodated 900 affluent guests who vacationed and made business decisions here. Today, the town's primary industries include education and health and social services.

PADDLING & BOATING

Paddle the longest continuous set of rapids in the eastern United States: 15 Class III-IV rapids in 4 miles!

TO BOAT THE STONYCREEK...

is to experience the best that this mountain river system has to offer. From the experts-only Class V water of Paint Creek to the East's longest-continuous rapids in the Stonycreek Canyon, whitewater paddlers will find hydraulics aplenty here. But the Stony's more placid stretches and the beautiful Quemahoning Lake offer places for less-experienced boaters – or for those who are content to sit back and feel the ripples.

With a growing reputation among paddlers and fly fishers, and the development of Quemahoning Lake as a family recreation area, The Stonycreek is becoming the place for mountain-style fun! Paddle or pedal, cast a fly or a plug, swim or picnic, enjoy a crowded festival or a solitary walk. The Stonycreek features outstanding recreational and leisure-time resources!

KISKI-CONEMAUGH RIVER WATER TRAIL

The Kiski-Conemaugh is a good novice and family canoe and kayak river. The most prominent features include the Conemaugh Gorge, just west of Johnstown, and Packsaddle Gap. Elements of the Allegheny Portage Railroad remain along the entire length of the trail, some visible only at low water. For more information and a trail map, visit: www.fish.state.pa.us/watertrails

CANOE/KAYAK LAUNCHES

Paddlers can launch their canoes or kayaks at the following locations on the Stonycreek River: Greenhouse Park off of Rt. 403 in Tire Hill; near the Hickory St. Bridge (Johnstown); below the Inclined Plane bridge off Rt. 56 in downtown Johnstown. Conemaugh River launch is at 6th Ave. & Power St., Johnstown in the Cambria City section of Johnstown. Beware of low head dams and other river hazards. Be sure to obtain a water trail map.

WHITEWATER RELEASES

The Stonycreek not only features great whitewater, but it can guarantee it! Just upstream of the Stonycreek Canyon on Quemahoning Creek sits the Quemahoning Dam, which has a 500 cfs release valve. The valve is opened on a schedule that is published in advance, assuring boaters who are traveling some distance that there will be whitewater to boat. Although the releases typically occur every other weekend from April into October, check the updated schedule before you go because the releases sometimes are canceled if the water level is too low in Quemahoning Lake. When releases do occur, they can dramatically improve the boating in the class III-IV Stonycreek Canyon. For the 2016 release schedule, visit www.benscreekcanooclub.com/quemahoning-releases

TRANS ALLEGHENY TRAILS

Here in the heart of Pennsylvania's Allegheny Mountains, the Trans Allegheny Trails are a system of rail-trails – with attitude. Parts of them are almost level, while other sections are downright challenging. That's part of the fun for riders who like to get their hearts pumping and don't mind breaking a sweat. You don't have to be that kind of rider to enjoy the Trans Allegheny Trails though! Most sections are typical rail-trail (less than 3% grade) and run through some of the Alleghenies' most beautiful scenery. And these trails have all of the historic character of the Alleghenies themselves. Come for a day, a weekend or a week! To decide which trails to ride, build an itinerary, get directions and find the necessary amenities of bike shops, food and lodging, visit transallegheyntrails.com.
